GARNER FOR MOVE IN THE CONTROL OVER WPA FUNDS

Vice President Into Active Part In Interest Of Communities

VIEW DIFFERS WITH
SENATOR BARKLEY

Meeting Of Senate Relief
Committee Is Called For Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(P)—The Vice President G. A. C. Gurner was described authoritatively today as taking an active part in efforts to give local communities more control over expenditures of WPA funds.

Gurner is understood to have told close associates he believed the problem of keeping politics out of relief could be met at least in part by setting up non-partisan boards in each county. These boards would examine complaints of political misuse of relief money or discrimination against relief applicants.

He has told his friends these boards should be purely local agencies, appointed by local officials entirely free from WPA control.

This view differs sharply from that of Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), who said yesterday he believed if such boards were set up they should be appointed by the WPA.

Barkley, the Democratic floor leader, said he never had favored the current practice of having a local certifying agent, appointed by a local official, accept the responsibility for designating those eligible for relief. He said he believed WPA should accept this responsibility.

Relief Group To Meet.
After hearing of Barkley's statement, Gurner conferred with Senator Byrnes (D-SC), floor manager for WPA appropriation bills.

Byrnes said later he had not made up his mind on details of relief legislation. He called a meeting of the senate relief committee for next Wednesday.

Byrnes has said previously he believes some specific prohibition against political coercion of relief employees would be inserted in the next WPA appropriations bill. He also has been working on a formula by which relief might be apportioned to states according to need, population, area and other factors.

In the house, meanwhile, influential members intimated the appropriations committee might curb the administration's relief program for the year beginning July 1.

Some legislators talked of letting the committee make a long-discussed investigation of the entire relief set-up, including any political aspects it may have.

Such an inquiry, they said, probably would be delayed until an appropriation to carry relief through June 30 is out of the way. Then, when the administration makes its recommendations for next year, the committee would have to decide whether to continue WPA and on what financial basis it should operate.

Some members predicted the committee would surround the relief program with restrictions, perhaps by earmarking the money for specific uses and types of work-relief projects.

The relief bill for the remainder of the current fiscal year may be given right of way over all other legislation in the house. Brief hearings are planned as soon as possible after the President sends up his estimate of the money needed and the appropriations committee is organized for the session.

Committee organization also was a topic of discussion in the senate, where the Democratic and Republican leaders, Barkley of Kentucky and McNary of Oregon, arranged to talk over the question of giving Republicans increased representation on committees.

Sensors and house members are arriving on almost every train, ready for the opening of congress next Tuesday.

PENALTY ON TAXES
AFTER SATURDAY

Saturday is the last day for the payment of city and county taxes without additional penalties. Effective January 1 there is a one per cent interest per month and two per cent county commission added to the county taxes. The city likewise has a three per cent penalty the first of January, with an additional one per cent each month up to ten per cent. The city's three per cent is divided, two per cent to the collector, one per cent to the city.

BUYING PEPPED UP
BY COLD WEATHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(P)—The usual post-Christmas drop in retail trade was cushioned this week by "disposal sales" and increased buying of apparel due to colder weather. Dun & Bradstreet reported today in their weekly business review.

"Final reports of the Christmas shopping season," said the review, indicated a drop of approximately 2 per cent for the country as a whole compared with the same period a year ago.

"Most retailers thought the totals encouraging, considering the slow start of buying this year, the smaller unit sale, and the lower price average."

"Post-Christmas business showed up even more favorably, with results for this week estimated 1 to 4 per cent better than the final week of 1937."

RESTORATION OF RISK CARE FEES SOUGHT IN SUIT

L. H. Cook, H. P. Lauf, Attorneys, and Guy M.
Sone, Defendants

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 31.—(P)—Restoration of $147,000 in fire insurance case fees paid three Jefferson City men and voided by the supreme court was asked today in a suit filed in the Cole county circuit court.

The suit, filed in the name of state insurance Superintendent George A. S. Robertson, was prepared by Attorney General Roy McKittick's office. McKittick has been an arch foe of the fees.

L. H. Cook and H. P. Lauf, attorneys named as custodians and commissioners of the impounded funds in the 10 per cent case, were sued for $59,500 each. Guy M. Sone, Cole county clerk appointed custodian of the 16-2-3 per cent funds, was sued for $28,000.

The petition said demands for payment had been made to the three men following the high court decisions, but without result. Six per cent interest on the money from the date of its receipt was asked.

The fees paid Cook and Lauf were thrown out by the court last April, and Sone's fees in October. The allowances were made by Circuit Judge Nike G. Sevier of Cole county.

Fees totaling $15,000 paid Gilbert Lamb, Salisbury, attorney for Cook and Lauf in the 10 per cent case, also were voided by the court. Suit to recover this sum was filed previously in Osage county, where Lamb now lives.

T. S. Mosby, Jefferson City, attorney for Sone in the 16-2-3 per cent case, received $54,000 in fees, but he was not included in the suit filed today because he has moved to California.

The $147,000, if recovered, would be restored to the impounded 10 per cent and 16-2-3 per cent funds, for repayment to policyholders. The fee allowances were made from the funds, which the supreme court ruled should go back to the policyholders who paid them in excess premiums.

PURSE SNATCHER
OVERLOOKS $20

Carroll Shull, 17, 407 North Hill, was arrested Thursday night and accused of snatching a pocketbook containing $22 from R. C. Weathers. The theft occurred at Main street and Ohio avenue at 10:30 o'clock Thursday night.

The youth took $22 from the wallet and then threw it away overlooking the $20 bill. When Officer Anson Finnell went to the boy's home he was found in bed—fully dressed.

Weathers, who lives at 2111 East Seventh was about to put the pocketbook in his pocket when a youth grabbed it and ran east on the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks. Weathers pursued him and saw him throw the pocketbook away. He stopped and picked up the pocketbook which still had the $20 bill and then reported the incident to the police saying he thought it was the Shull boy who stole his pocketbook.

Officer Anson Finnell went to the home of Shull on Hill street to find him in bed with his clothes on. Shull was taken to the police station and questioned where he admitted stealing the pocketbook. He told the officers that $1.75 of the money was at home and that he had spent twenty five cents of it to take a taxi home.

He is being held in the county jail.

FRANCO'S TROOPS PIERCE STRONG CAMARASA LINE

Hand To Hand Encounters
In The Battle Torn Sector

GOVERNMENT SENDS MORE TROOPS THERE

Successive Counter Attacks
At Balaguer Bridgehead Forts

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT ARMY, Dec. 30.—(P)—The government army's first major counter-attack against the insurgents' eight-day-old offensive was launched today, a powerful thrust south of Lerida, in the center of the Catalan battle front, aimed at Sarroca, three miles behind the enemy lines.

The counter-attack was led by some of the government's toughest troops and was directed against a sector which is believed to be largely held by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Italian troops.

Government officers said that if the drive reached Sarroca, 12 miles south of Lerida, the insurgents would be compelled to abandon a large area.

The drive was watched anxiously for indications of relative strengths, especially of the temper of the government army, now lacking its famous brigade of international shock troops.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish frontier), Dec. 30.—(P)—Spanish insurgent forces smashed through government lines today in the Camarasa zone, north of the battle-front Balaguer sector on the Lerida front in Catalonia.

Reports reaching the border said the insurgents had occupied Camarasa and continued their push toward the village of Cubells in an effort to cut both highway and water communications of government troops.

Military observers said they believed the northern column was attempting to establish contact with the central column, which last night blasted its way through the Balaguer bridgehead.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops pierced the strong Camarasa line after 24 hours of hand-to-hand fighting on a 500-yard stretch of frozen "no-man's land."

Far to the south, however, government resistance braced after the fall of Granadella and border dispatches said insurgents had been slowed down along the northern borders of Tarragona province.

Most closely watched by military observers, however, was the insurgent column advancing on Artesa in an attempt to join the forces at Camarasa. They said fall of Artesa, a key industrial village, might open to Franco a network of highways far behind the government's main defense of eastern Spain.

Guns To Front.

The government rushed all available men and guns on the northern Catalan battlefront today to the defense of the strategic Artesa triangle, slowly vanishing under insurgent Generalissimo Franco's steam-roller offensive.

The vital road center, called a "key to Catalonia," lay under the pounding of insurgent guns from the north and west.

Pushing slowly across the bloody Balaguer bridgehead sector, the insurgent command sent another column pointing toward Artesa from the southwest.

Both high commands appeared convinced possession of the tiny industrial town meant a long stride toward victory or defeat for the insurgents' great drive.

After a day of some of the bitterest fighting in the war, in which General Franco finally captured the southern key town of Granadella, both forces concentrated their efforts on Artesa.

Throughout the winter night, the government launched successive counter-attacks at Balaguer bridgehead forts wrested from them in the last two days of fighting.

Early this morning, however, insurgent advances said the bridgehead still was in their hands.

The Artesa triangle, with the town at the apex, includes an area between the main Balaguer-Artasa road and the Segre River, bending around the Carbonera Mountains.

LA GUARDIA SAYS
WORK RELIEF STAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(P)—Mayor La Guardia of New York said today it would be impossible for the new congress to abandon the relief program now carried on by the WPA.

Work relief is here to stay, he declared, because it is "the American way of providing relief."

La Guardia had a long talk with Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) but said afterwards he was only paying his respects, and not talking any third party politics.

DESTROYER IN A FREEDOM DASH WAS GROUNDED

Insurgent Shells Of Lurking Ships Kill Seven And Wound Others

GIBRALTAR, Dec. 30.—(P)—A daring dash for freedom through blazing guns of Spanish insurgent warships and shore batteries ended in failure for a lone government destroyer today, amid the crashing of shells in startled Gibraltar itself.

The Jose Luis Diaz, a virtual prisoner here since August, attempted to sneak through a gauntlet of lurking insurgent ships in the pitch darkness of early morning. But destructive fire of her alert enemy forced her aground about 100 yards from the shores of Catalan bay with seven of her crew killed and 11 wounded.

Before grounding, the destroyer struck a heavy blow on her own account by ramming and sinking the 1500-ton insurgent sloop Jupiter.

Shortly after the darkened 1,650-ton Jose Luis slipped from the protection of the Gibraltar harbor the short-lived, one-sided naval battle began.

Guns began to blaze from the 10,000-ton cruiser Canarias and other insurgent warships, long lying in wait. Insurgent batteries at Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, 15 miles across the straits, also went into action.

Shells from the Canarias tore through and destroyed two houses on Gibraltar's Catalan bay. Several occupants were injured and taken to a hospital.

Shells Injure British Subjects
The fact the shells landed on British soil, injuring British subjects, may lead to vigorous British diplomatic or other action.

Southeast of Europa point, the Jose Luis rammed the Jupiter. The British destroyer Vanoc went to the scene when the battle broke out.

After the ramming, gunfire from the vessels and the Ceuta forts compelled the Jose Luis to run aground on the eastern beach of Gibraltar. She immediately landed her dead and wounded.

A score of the crew of the Jose Luis were killed and many wounded in the battle with the Canarias and other insurgent ships in the straits last August, which forced her to limp into Gibraltar for refuge and repairs.

Today's battle followed bombing of a British ship in the Mediterranean yesterday.

The British destroyer Vanoc and the French destroyer Basque turned search lights on the battle scene while rowboats brought the casualties ashore.

MISS BROWN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Miss Jane Brown, 17, received bruises on the chest when she apparently lost control of the car she was driving and crashed into a tree in the 1200 block on West Broadway Thursday night about 8:50 o'clock. Miss Brown, who was driving a 1937 Oldsmobile sedan, lives at 604 West Fifth.

She was taken to the Bothwell hospital in McLaughlin's ambulance where an examination by Doctor John B. Carlisle revealed bruises on the chest. She remained at the hospital Thursday night.

W. Scotty Crawford, who lives at 1202 West Broadway heard Miss Brown's cries for help and ran to the scene to find her lying in the car. She was carried into the Crawford residence and the ambulance was called.

The right front fender of the car was smashed against the wheel when the car jumped the curb on the right side of the street and hit one tree and glanced off it and stopped when it hit another tree. Only slight damage was done to the car.

Officers Lawrence Englund, Joe Gresham and Anson Finnell investigated the accident.

FOR PROPOSAL TO ABOLISH THREE APPEALS COURTS

Outlined In A Report By The State Judicial Council Today

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.—(P)—A proposal to abolish Missouri's three appeals courts will be presented to the legislature with the recommendation it submit the amendment to the voters at the 1940 general election.

The constitutional change would eliminate the Kansas City, Springfield and St. Louis appellate courts and consolidate them with an enlarged supreme court.

The broad revision program is outlined in a report forwarded today by the state judicial council, established by the supreme court to study methods of improving the judicial system.

The proposal, with slight modifications, is the one circulated among lawyers throughout the state last fall, said Frank H. Sullivan, St. Louis attorney and chairman of the council.

Under the amendment the supreme court would consist of 16 members, instead of seven as at present, with the nine judges of the three appellate courts becoming supreme court judges for the terms for which they were elected. Salaries of each of the 16 members would be $10,000 annually, instead of $7500 for supreme court judges and $6000 for appellate court judges, as at present.

At expiration of the terms of the appellate judges who would become supreme court judges, three supreme court judges would be elected by popular vote in each of the abolished appellate court districts. The other seven supreme court judges would continue to be elected by state-wide vote.

The supreme court en banc would consist of the chief justice and six associate judges, sitting at Jefferson City. The court would provide for divisions, comprising not less than three judges each, to sit at such times and places as the court might direct.

Circuit judges would be authorized to sit as special judges in divisions of the supreme court, when selected by the court to do so, and circuit judges called for such service could call on any other circuit judge to sit in their stead on the circuit bench.

Arguments advanced by the council in favor of the amendment were that it would eliminate delay in transfer of cases where appellate jurisdiction is obscure, provide initial hearings at places convenient to litigants, remove as far as possible conflicts of decision, simplify procedure and "broaden the power of review of an intermediate appellate decision by the highest judicial authority of the state on questions of importance."

MADRID, Dec. 30.—(P)—The British ship Mirupano was badly damaged today in an insurgent air raid on the port of Valencia.

GERMANY PLANS TO BUILD UP TO PARITY IN 'SUBS'

Apprises British Of Intent
To Take Advantage
Of Rights

WOULD ACT UNDER THE ESCAPE CLAUSE

Discussion With Representatives of British Admiralty

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—(P)—Germany intends to build up to parity with Great Britain in submarines, representatives of the British admiralty were told today.

The 1935 British-German naval treaty recognized Germany's right to parity but Germany agreed not to exceed 45 per cent of Britain's submarine tonnage.

An escape clause, however, permitted Germany to avail herself of the right to build beyond 45 per cent "in the event of a situation arising which in its (the German government's) opinion makes it necessary."

(The 45-to-100 ratio for submarines was accepted by Germany in exchange for her agreement to remain within a 35-to-100 ratio for other naval vessels.)

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—(P)—Germany notified Britain today of her intention "to carry out certain rights" granted her under the naval pacts by which German seapower is limited in proportion to that of the British Empire.

Officials declined to disclose exactly what action the Nazi regime proposed to take regarding its navy, but the matter was discussed today by high German officials and a British naval mission, just arrived from London.

The British officers were Rear-Admiral J. H. D. Cunningham, a lord commission of the admiralty, and two others. They will fly to London tomorrow to present results of the discussions to their superiors.

The Anglo-German naval treaty of June 18, 1935, by which Chancellor Hitler agreed to limit his navy to 35 per cent of Britain's, gave Germany the right to change the tonnage of certain categories within the over-all 35-per-cent limit.

The second treaty, of July 7, 1937, brought the first into line with the 1936 London naval treaty among the United States, Britain and France, which provided for limitation of the tonnages and armaments of individual warships.

CHILLING BLASTS
BEGIN TO VANISH

By The Associated Press
Freezing weather prevailed today over most of the northern states, with the mercury near or below zero in many spots.

Weather observers promised a rise in temperatures for much of the cold belt tomorrow but said there was no prospect of very mild weather.

A severe cold wave chilled Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan today. A moderate cold wave rolled into Missouri and portions of New York. More intense cold was forecast for the northeastern section of the nation tonight.

At least 12 persons died of exposure during the week of frigid weather. There were two exposure deaths each in Indiana and Ohio, and one each in Connecticut, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Alabama, California, Montana, New Jersey, and North Carolina.

During the same period there were at least 78 traffic deaths, many of them attributed to blizzards, winds, and slippery highways. They were reported from widely scattered portions of the nation.

Chinook winds brought relief from the cold in the eastern Rocky Mountain area from Montana to Colorado and eastward to Nebraska. At Livingston, Mont., it was two above zero and snowing yesterday morning while late last night the mercury reached 44 and rain began to fall.

FUNERAL TUESDAY FOR BISHOP LILLIS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 30.—(P)—Archbishop John Gregory Murray of St. Paul, a long-time friend will preach the funeral sermon for Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, 77, here next Tuesday morning. Bishop Lillis died yesterday.

Archbishop J. J. Glennon of St. Louis, also a long time friend, will celebrate the mass.

The Rt. Rev. James J. McCaffrey, vicar general of the diocese, was named to carry on the work until a new bishop is selected.

Marriage License Issued

Joseph E. Elzea and Marianna Snyder, both of Sedalia.

MANY TO CELEBRATE
NEW YEAR'S EVE

New Year's eve will be observed in churches, homes, cafes, clubs and restaurants in Sedalia. There have been no elaborate preparations made by any of the hotels or restaurants, but those places regularly open at night are anticipating record crowds.

The younger folks of the city, who have been enjoying many social events during the holiday season, will meet in groups and probably spend the evening dancing. Members of the Country club will "watch the old year out and the new year in" at a dance at the club.

County and city officers, and the highway patrolmen, will all be subject to call, in the event there are those who imbibe too freely and may cause disturbances on the streets. An effort will also be made to see that no one drives a car who has been drinking, and everything possible will be done to avoid accidents.

GERMANY STILL PEEVED ON THE SPEECH OF ICKES

Says Improved Relations With U. S. Unlikely If Defense Continues

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—(P)—Germany's official news agency, DNB, declared today hope for improved relations between the United States and Germany "lacks every foundation" so long as the Washington state department "defends" Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

A statement issued by the agency—and considered in some quarters as Chancellor Hitler's word to Washington—asserted: "The minister of the interior of the United States Ickes delivered a speech before the Zionist Society in Cleveland shortly before Christmas in which, in connection with threats at the Third Reich, he attacked its leadership in an unwarrantable manner. (The speech was made Dec. 18.)

"The German Charge d'Affaires in Washington (Dr. Hans Thomsen) presented the sharpest protest on account of these attacks to the American vice foreign minister (Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles.)

"The American foreign office, however, did not—as is a matter of self-evident procedure otherwise in matters of this kind in international relations—disassociate itself from the utterances of the American minister of the interior, but tried to defend them.

"It must therefore be stated that as long as such a procedure, which obviously serves Jewish interests and leaves out of account the real German-American interests, continues in the conduct of relations of the United States of North America with Germany, the hope expressed by the American foreign office to the German Charge d'Affaires for an improvement of mutual relationship lacks every foundation."

OLD AGE PENSION
CHECKS BE DELAYED

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 20.—(P)—The social security commission notified the state's 74,822 old age pension recipients today their January checks will be delayed at least several days.

"The delay is occasioned by the fact," a statement said, "that the appropriation for the 1937-38 biennium is automatically cancelled on Dec. 31, and payment of old age assistance allotments must await an emergency appropriation of the legislature which convenes Jan. 4."

The January payroll already has been made up by the commission and the checks will go out as soon as the legislature acts. The payments will average $18.58 as against $18.48 in December.

Administrator George I. Hawthorn said "we still have a large waiting list of applicants for old age assistance who are in process of being investigated. Our efforts to increase the size of the payments where the need justifies such action, and to absorb all eligibles as rapidly as possible, have been greatly handicapped by lack of field workers."

Direct relief allotments, which ordinarily are made to all counties at the first of each month, also will be delayed and Hawthorn said some delay is expected in the aid to dependent children payments, which ordinarily go out on the tenth of each month.

Hawthorn said direct relief demands are "mounting rapidly" in all parts of the state with the coming of severe weather.

REPORT THE PWA HAD ADHERED TO FULL PROGRAM

Secretary Ickes Says It Carried Out Part In Spend-
Lend Setup

FUNDS INVOLVED PUT
AT $1,574,769,686

Speculation On A Possible
Move For Permanent
PWA Agency

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(P)—Secretary Ickes reported to President Roosevelt today the Public Works Administration had put a $1,574,769,686 program completely under contract in the last six months, to the accompaniment of a "constantly accelerated recovery in business and industry."

The report went to the White House amid speculation Mr. Roosevelt might support a movement among congressmen to make the PWA a permanent agency.

The deadline for this year's program is tomorrow midnight, but, said Ickes, he has an ample reservoir of applications to start with, "should the congress decide at any time in the future to go forward with another program of public works."

PWA, he said, benefits "all the people." Already "basic industries are busy manufacturing materials, and men have moved back to jobs," he added, even though the peak of construction will not be attained until next year.

Ickes' analysis took not the President's approval of PWA projects as they came to his desk placed on the market "more than $300,000,000 worth of work every thirty days."

Several congressmen have suggested PWA be made permanent and the Works Progress Administration be curtailed and eventually scrapped.

While the President has in the past favored a permanent public works agency, there was doubt among informed persons he would agree to abolishing the WPA.

One fundamental difference between the two agencies in their effect on unemployment is illustrated in the way their money is spent.

FULL AND USEFUL LIFE

To those who knew and loved him in the diocese of which he was in charge, and elsewhere, the passing of Bishop Thomas F. Lillis robs them of a friend whose loyalty and charitable attributes were equal to every test.

The qualities of Bishop Lillis that stood out above all others, were his devotion to religion, his courage and honesty. He was unselfish and in the high office of the Catholic church he held he consistently advocated and directed affairs in a manner that won him favor among, not only those of his own religious belief, but among others in the daily routine of business, professional or other endeavors.

Probably no man holding a position of like power in the church exercised it less to his own personal advantage.

He had been interested in athletics from boyhood and enjoyed to the fullest clean sports of various sorts but ever held steadfast to his religious precepts and conducted the affairs of bishop in a dignified and capable way.

His buoyancy had always been great, his store of vitality large, joy of life intense, but the thing he will be longest remembered by was the loyalty of his friendships, their warmth, their unselfishness. His was a full and useful life.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Assistant Superintendent Earl J. Bryan's one-man back to school movement in Cleveland, Ohio, gets a gold star for heads-up pedagogy.

Bryan, who is in charge of Cleveland's senior high schools, has been attending tenth-grade classes regularly from the 8 a. m. bell to 4 p. m. He will enroll in the eleventh grade subsequently and then go on to the senior classes.

What he learns from this first-hand contact he will use in his job as superintendent.

Mr. Bryan's idea is a sound one. An idea that other superintendents might well try.

GRAVE DIGGERS

They are going to dig up a perfectly good lawn at Provincetown, Mass., in an attempt to prove that the Pilgrim Fathers landed there instead of at Plymouth Rock across Massachusetts Bay.

The idea, according to Provincetown Mayflower descendants, is to find the graves of a few Pilgrims who are said to have died during the short while the ship was at Provincetown.

At this distance it would seem the sensible thing to let sleeping Pilgrims lie. Think of the possible disillusionment in store for all the interland Americans who have used summer vacations to go to New England and reverently contemplate Plymouth Rock.

Gentlemen, and ladies, spare that sod. But if you must dig, please replace the turf.

GOOD INTENTIONS NO EXCUSE FOR DRIVER CARELESSNESS

It is a long time since anyone has accepted "I didn't know it was loaded" as a satisfactory excuse for a shooting. And it may be that one reason why our automobile traffic death toll is at last going down is the fact that a similar healthy skepticism is being developed toward the excuses offered by motorists.

A case in point occurred the other day in Fresno, California, where a young man was sent to jail for 30 days because he fell asleep while driving his car.

The man's family was moving and he was transporting household goods back and forth. It got to be late at night, and he was—naturally enough—very tired and drowsy. He dozed off while driving along the road. His car swerved and hit a truck. His niece, riding in the car with him, was killed and the young man was held on a charge of manslaughter.

Now the point is that this driver, in a sense, was as blameless as a man could be. He hadn't been intoxicated, nor had he been speeding or breaking any traffic laws. He was a good lad, and the district attorney asked that leniency be shown. But the judge remarked:

"The fact remains that he was negligent in driving while sleepy. It is the duty of drivers to stop their automobiles before they go to sleep. A sleepy or a drowsy driver is a menace to the public."

So the young man has to spend a month in jail, where he can meditate on the need for eternal vigilance at the steering wheel.

Simple enough, all of this—and hardly worth comment, except that it does highlight a little truth that we can too easily overlook.

The man who is driving an automobile has a ton and a half of steel rolling along the highway. He may have the best intentions in the world, but if for any reason at all it gets out of his control, somebody is going to get hurt. He may be guilty of nothing more heinous than dozing for five seconds—but the effect can be as bad as if he were a homicidal maniac possessed of a meat-ax. And the only possible rule that can be laid down is that he has no business getting behind the wheel if anything is going to interfere with his ability to drive his car safely.

It has taken us a long time to learn this lesson, but it is soaking in slowly. And when we get it digested, we may be able to go on from there and realize that the same sort of truth applies to all of our activities in the modern world.

For this whole age of machinery, with its mass production lines, its speedy communications, its intricate web of financial and political relationships, is careening along the highway of history like a speeding automobile. It requires our constant attention and our best skill. We may have the best intentions in the world, but if we let the thing get out of control the results will be disastrous.

The world is moving at automobile speed, not at a horse-and-buggy pace. If we fail to take charge of it, it will take charge of us. Like that man in the auto, we can't afford to doze even for a moment.

Looking Backward

FROM FILES OF THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

FORTY YEARS AGO

At the funeral of Mrs. Louisa Long at St. Vincent's church Henry V. Leist sang a solo.

J. D. Donnohue, H. Servan, W. H. Ramsey, J. C. Van Riper and Joe Rhodes returned from a three days' hunting trip in the Cole Camp vicinity.

Quite a number of counterfeit half dollars were reported in circulation in Sedalia, a well known banker informing the Democrat several had been turned in to banks with deposits by persons not discovering they were bogus.

Over 400 poor men, women and children were given a Christmas dinner by the Salvation Army and baskets of food were also sent out to unfortunate families and the sick. Adjutant George F. Casler expressed appreciation to donors who made this feasting possible.

WASHINGTON—As candidates for the Supreme Court seat of the late Justice Cardozo come down the home stretch before Congress convenes, one definite development is the withdrawal of Felix Frankfurter. Largely because of the Jewish situation, he has asked friends not to push his appointment.

Almost equally definite is the probability that the new Justice will be from the Far West.

High up on the list of Westerners under consideration is Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., of Texas, judge of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, and one of the ablest jurists in the country. Only Judge William Denman of San Francisco equaled him in the number of opinions written last year. Hutcheson is the man whom Professor Frankfurter is pushing now that he has dropped out of the race.

Important on the list also is Senator Louis Schwellenbach of Washington State, one of Roosevelt's most forthright supporters in the Senate. Chief factor against Schwellenbach's appointment is that Roosevelt cannot well spare him from the Senate, and that reactionary Governor Martin of Washington would appoint a conservative to fill his senatorial toga.

Also to be considered is Judge Harold Stephens of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, an extremely able jurist, who has the advantage of coming from Utah, plus the energetic support of Homer Cummings.

Note—Judge Denman, who has made a unique record in California, has been handicapped by his age, 66.

Judge Hutcheson of Houston, Texas, is one of the frankest jurists in the United States, with the best sense of humor.

Discussing on the sanctity of the law in the Cornell Law Review, Judge Hutcheson wrote:

"I sit down bodily and I, even as your other worshipers do, invoke and employ hunches in decisions. I, after canvassing all the available material at my command, and duly cogitating upon it, give my imagination play and, brooding over cause, wait for the feeling, the hunch—that intuitive flash of understanding which makes the jump-spark connection between question and decision.

"And more, 'lest I be stoned in the street' for this admission, let me hasten to say to my brothers of the Bench and of the Bar, 'My practice is the same as your other worshipers.'"

Capital Chaff

So eager is Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., of the Democratic National Committee to get customers to the Jackson Day dinner, that he is sending out invitations to dead men. . . . Wonder what Harry Hopkins, new Secretary of Commerce, will do about Roper's Assistant Secretary, Colonel "Rowboat" Johnson? . . . Real German ambassador in Washington these days is Kurt Sell, German newspaperman, who has more friends and radiates more goodwill, despite an awkward position, than all the staff of his Embassy. . . . Governor Earle of Pennsylvania, who just experienced his 14th crash, has been talking of enlisting in the French air corps. During a recent trip to France, he told friends that he was fed up and disillusioned with politics, would become an aviator if war broke.

Virgin Islands Trouble

It has not broken above the surface yet, but more trouble is brewing in the Virgin Islands, political hot-spot of the Caribbean. This time it is Governor Lawrence Cramer who is on the pan and has received a severe dressing down from Interior Secretary Ickes, his boss.

Behind the trouble is friction between Cramer and Boyd Brown, president of the Virgin Islands

• SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I'll bet you don't know the proper reply to an invitation to a European ambassador's reception."

Company, a government corporation. Cramer has been jealous of Brown, who has been successful in building up new industries for the islands. Cramer has been poking a meddling finger into Brown's work.

Specifically what Governor Cramer has been trying to do is increase wages of sugar field and other labor in the Virgin Islands Company. These already have been increased 100 per cent by the Government. The further increase proposed by Cramer, Brown fears, would bankrupt the company, give New Deal critics an opportunity to demand the abolition of the Virgin Islands experiment in government operation.

Interior Department officials have supported Brown, and Secretary Ickes has written a letter couched in typical Ickesque language rebuking youthful Governor Cramer.

Silver Key

Senator Key Pittman of Nevada did more than any other single individual to pass the present silver act. During long sessions with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht and other European economists in 1933, Key Pittman droned on about silver, until they were ready to do almost anything to please him.

With the opening of Congress, however, Pittman is out to revise the silver act, has already talked to the President about it. His criticism is that the United States failed to get the cooperation of other countries.

The British Empire, he says, consistently sabotaged the program, and Pittman proposes that the United States "now reduce its purchases of foreign silver to a minimum." The coming session of Congress is almost sure to see new legislation on silver.

• SERIAL STORY

SKI'S THE LIMIT BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
SALLY BLAIR—heroine. She had everything that popularity could wish her, except DAN REYNOLDS—hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis and very popular was king of the social white. . . . But go on with the story.

Yesterday, Dan had told Sally that he would come back again and she would wait for him, realizing that he was into her world as no other man.

CHAPTER XIII

SALLY had been right—Dan did fit in with herself and her father. Dinner was a very pleasant affair. Mr. Blair led the young man on, drawing him into conversation, encouraging him to give his viewpoint on various topics, business, politics, world problems, even bringing him to talk of more personal matters, as well.

Dan proved to be a most interesting talker, once he forgot his reserve, and what is even more important, a good listener. Sally's father appeared to enjoy his company thoroughly, so much so that as the lovely spring evening wore on, Sally wondered if he was going to have Dan to himself or not!

"I've about talked myself hoarse," her father said, throwing away his cigar after one last puff. "Now I'm going on indoors"—they had been making their tour of the garden—"and leave you young people to yourselves." He had that twinkle in his eye as he beamed on them. He thought what a fine looking pair of youngsters they were, his Sally looking prettier than usual, it seemed, in her fluffy white dress with its wide skirt and blue sash, her dark curls held in place with a matching ribbon, her dark eyes bright, this young Reynolds—and a finer boy Sam Blair had yet to meet—trim and well groomed in his neat gray suit, his gray eyes so steady, his face a bit flushed up, too, from the earnestness of some of his pet theories which he had been expounding.

"It's too fine a night to go in," the boy protested. "We're glad of your company, sir. I can't begin to tell you how much I have appreciated it."

"You will always find a welcome in our home, won't he, Sally?" Mr. Blair returned in his hearty way. There was no nonsense about this boy. Maybe because he realized that life was a serious, as well as a beautiful gift. Maybe because he had to earn his way. Take boys like young Corey, whose fathers had too much money, their paths were made too smooth for them; maybe it was not altogether their fault if they did not develop as much character as they should.

"Aren't you going to sit down?" Sally asked, dimpling up at him. Her father had said they should talk of less serious matters. "Aren't you going to look at the moon, Dan Reynolds? See, it's looking at us!"

"No, I'll be going indoors," Sally's father said. He had not forgotten what it was to be young on a night like this. "It is a fine night, as you say, my lad. But there's also a touch of dampness that won't do this old man's rheumatism any good. You two youngsters look at the moon and talk about less serious matters for a spell. And don't forget to come out and share dinner with us again. Whether you've papers to deliver from Frank Devon's offices or not."

He chuckled to himself as he went on indoors. What a matchmaker he was turning out to be! But if the day had to come when he had to lose his little girl Sam Blair had satisfied himself that he would not mind losing her so much to a fine young man like this Reynolds. Oh, he had had his own motives in procuring the lad a job, in inviting him into his home. It was just as well to size a person up by personal contact.

"What a lucky girl you are, Sally Blair," Dan said. "To have such a man for your father. You must be mighty proud of him."

Sally said, "I most certainly am." She was so pleased that her father and Dan had got on so well. She might have known they would. That only went to prove how right she was in knowing that Dan did belong in her world—the real world that lay underneath the gaudy, glittering surface. Her father had been a poor boy like Dan once; he had had to make his own way up and he had succeeded by his own efforts.

"I didn't know," Dan was saying, "that your father was a client of Devon and Devons. I certainly was surprised when Mr. Frank Devon asked me to bring those papers out here this evening. It certainly was a coincidence, wasn't it?"

SALLY laughed lightly. She gathered her wide skirt carefully as she sat down on a stone bench at the far end of the rose garden, a bench that would give them a box-seat, if they wanted to look at the moon, as her father had advised them. "Yes, it was, wasn't it?" she said. Some day she would tell Dan the whole truth of the matter. That her father had got him his position at Devon and Devons. That, as a matter of fact, Sam Blair was the biggest stockholder in the firm. But this was not the time, or the place. Not with a moon like that.

"Aren't you going to sit down?" Sally asked, dimpling up at him. Her father had said they should talk of less serious matters. "Aren't you going to look at the moon, Dan Reynolds? See, it's looking at us!"

It's wondering what we are thinking about and if we really appreciate a lovely night like this."

It was a night made just for looking at the moon. A night of soft spring air that was like a caress, of sighing breezes and whispering small insects. A night made, perhaps, just for them.

Dan sat down beside her. He said, "I'm thinking what a lucky guy I am to be here—looking at this moon. You know, Sally, everything is a coincidence in a way. Beginning with the accident, ending with my coming here. Have I told you how that came about?" His gray eyes rested on her earnestly. How pretty she was, like some silver princess in her white dress in the moonlight. Sally Blair, queen of her small secure universe in which he still felt an alien, would continue to feel so until he made his own way, conquered his bad leg, proven himself.

"No, you haven't told me," Sally said. She wished he would let that wait until some other time and place, too. She wished she need not keep the truth from him, even for a little while. Suppose he found out, before she had a chance to tell him? Suppose he misunderstood again?

BUT she must not, she would not think of things like that. Not with the moon looking down on them, not on a night like this.

"Tell me another time," Sally said. "Let's just be happy tonight, shall we? Happy and gay. Let's just be glad that you are here, whether it's a coincidence or luck or fate, or whatever it is. Let's be content to know that we are friends."

"That should be enough for anyone," Dan returned gravely. Then he smiled at her. He picked up her hand, so small and soft, that lay between them. "I'll be content with that—for a while, Sally Blair. But not for always."

He raised her hand toward his lips—for a breathless moment, during which Sally's heart nearly stopped beating, she thought he was going to put it against them. But instead he put it gently down between them once more. "Some day—when I've licked a few things that have rather got the best of me now," Dan said, "some day I'll tell you why I shan't be satisfied with that always. But we must wait awhile, Sally. You will wait, won't you—until then?"

"Yes," Sally said, and her voice held all the breathless wonder of the beauty of the night. "I'll wait, Dan."

Forever would not be too long to wait, if that waiting brought what she hoped it would bring for them.

With gorgeous gown, coach, horses and coachman, Cinderella was all set to go to the Prince's ball. But her Fairy Godmother warned her that she must leave on the stroke of midnight, or she would be returned to rags, her coach will be a pumpkin, her horses little mice and her coachman a rat. Cinderella promised. Then away she went. And at the ball, guess who first invites her to dance—little Emilie Dionne, the Prince. They float onto the floor in a minute and Cinderella's stepsisters look on with envy.

It is seventh Heaven to Cinderella. She enjoys at least a dozen dances in a row with the Prince. He is thrilled by her charm and beauty. And she is enchanted. It is all like a dream . . . so much so that Cinderella forgets all about the time. Suddenly a clock begins to chime the hour of midnight. Cinderella is terrified! She rushes down a winding stairway, losing one of her glass slippers in her flight. The Prince is mystified and, as she disappears, picks up the dainty little slipper.

NEXT: How will the Prince ever find Cinderella again?

HUGHESVILLE

(By Mrs. C. L. Rages)
The Drama, Literature and Music club gave a beautiful interpretation of the Christmas story in readings, music and song Sunday night at the Methodist church in Hughesville.

In a setting of lighted candles with the stage fixed to represent the manger the program opened with Mildred Rages playing the Christmas carols. A duet, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," was sung by Lorraine Kinchloe and Leola Reese.

As Dorothy Schneck quoted Luke 2:1-20, Mariah Nell Rages as Mary and Evelyn Miller and Dora Dale Siron as angels took their places on the stage. Leola Reese sang, "No Cradle Was There And No Fire." As her song ended boys voices were heard at the back of the church singing, "We Three Kings of the Orient Are" and Junior Kinchloe, Harry Smith and Clayton Callis dressed as wise men marched to the stage and laid their treasures by the manger cradle.

"Adeste Fideles" was then heard and the angelic choir in their white robes marched singing down the aisle and knelt at the altar. Their candles were lighted by the angels and placed in the windows.

This concluded the first part of the program and the following numbers were:

TODAY'S PATTERN

Monastic Dress Is Perfect For the Young School Girl

THE simple, two-seam dress that has taken the grown-up fashion world by storm is equally smart and becoming to school girls, too, as you can see from this design, Pattern 8405.

The utter simplicity and soft fullness are very becoming to immature figures. And girls, who always like lots of clothes variety, will be delighted to have a dress they can fix many ways to look different.

They can wear the fullness all around, like a dirndl, or arranged at the sides, as in the sketch. Crisp, pointed collar and cuffs, and a three button closing under the chin complete its charm.

Just sew the front and the back together, set in the sleeves, and there you are. Use thin wool, velvet, challis, silk crepe and prints.

Pattern 8405 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 2-1/4 yards of 39-inch material; 3-8 yard of contracting collar and cuffs.

The new FALL and WINTER PATTERN BOOK, 32 pages of attractive designs for every size and every occasion is now ready. ## JOAN CRAWFORD HEADS BIG CAST IN LIBERTY FILM

With a star-studded cast including Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullivan, Robert Young, Melvyn Douglas and Fay Bainter, "The Shining Hour" opens at the Liberty Theatre Sunday for an engagement of two days.

Miss Crawford plays a role which parallels her own career as a Broadway dancer and is reminiscent of her first starring pictures in dancing roles.

The story, directed by Frank Borzage, centers around a world-famous dancer, who, tired of the glare of the spotlight, marries a wealthy farmer. Complications ensue when her husband's sister resents the presence of the dancer in the family home. To make matters worse, her brother-in-law falls in love with her.

"The Shining Hour" marks the first time that Joan Crawford and Margaret Sullivan have played in the same picture. Both Young and Douglas have appeared with the star in several productions.

HARDY FAMILY GOES OUT WEST IN LATEST OF POPULAR SERIES

For the fifth time, the Judge Hardy Family flashes on the screen with their typical American humor and adventure when "Out West With the Hardys" comes to the Liberty Theatre next Tuesday.

The picture again stars the group of favorites whom millions of motion picture fans have come to know and love. Lewis Stone continues as Judge Hardy, Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy, Cecilia Parker as Marian, Fay Holden as Mrs. Hardy, Sara Haden as Aunt Milly and Ann Rutherford as Polly, Andy's girl.

As in the case of all former

Judge Hardy pictures, this story includes other characters. Virginia Weidler, eleven-year-old child star, heads the list of "guest" performers in the latest Hardy film. Gordon Jones becomes Cecilia Parker's new cinematic heart interest and Ralph Morgan, brother of Frank, has a leading role.

With George Seitz directing as he did with previous Hardy pictures, this story takes the entire family into the West as guests on a huge ranch. Here Cecilia Parker falls in love with the ranch foreman, Mickey has no heart interest out West but does meet his nemesis when Virginia Weidler, a girl and lots smaller than himself, shows him up in Western stunts. And Judge Hardy solves a mystery concerning water rights which saves his host from losing his valuable ranch.

The "Judge Hardy" pictures today probably form the most popular series in screen history. The first picture was "A Family Affair." It made such a hit that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer followed it with "You're Only Young Once" in which the family went to Catalina for a vacation. The third was "Judge Hardy's Children,"

Wild Turkeys for Missouri

Missourians this December will, for the first time in the history of the state, observe a closed season on the wild turkeys of the Ozark forests while the Missouri Conservation Commission gets its new turkey restoration program underway on state and federal forest lands. More than 500 young wild turkeys, like these shown here, have been released this fall on refuges deep in the patrolled forest areas to start the program.

HUSKY MULES OF WARRENSBURG TO FINALS TONIGHT

Outpass And Outshoot Oklahoma Aggies To Win
By 31 To 23

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The Warrensburg (Mo.) Teachers and the University of Texas Longhorns collide in the finals of the third annual Oklahoma City all-college basketball tournament tonight while the Oklahoma Aggies, winners of both previous tournaments, look on from the gallery.

Warrensburg's husky Mules, winners of the national intercollegiate tournament at Kansas City last winter, outpassed and outshot the Aggies to win their semi-final battle, 31 to 23, last night and the Longhorns sped past their state and southwest conference rivals, the Baylor Bears from Waco, 46 to 38.

The finalists survived a field of 32 teams—12 from Oklahoma, nine from Texas, five from Missouri, four from Kansas and two from Arizona—which started off together five days ago. The title game will be at 8:15 p. m.

Accuracy at the free throw line spelled victory for the Mules, who only matched the Aggies' 10 goals from the field. The Teachers hit 11 of their 14 chances from the foul line while the Aggies made only three out of 12.

Screamed Selves Hoarse
While 2,500 fans screamed themselves hoarse, two lanky brothers—Jimmy Gibbs of Warrensburg and Johnny Gibbs of the Aggies—battled on opposite sides of the fence and led their respective clubs in the exciting contest.

Texas built up a 25 to 19 half-time advantage against Baylor, only to see the Bears surge ahead in the last half.

Before the Longhorns and Mules take the floor tonight for the championship affair, the Oklahoma Aggies will battle Baylor for third place in a game scheduled for 7 p. m.

Freezing Ball in Closing Seconds May Be Boomerang to Team in Lead

Eleventh of 20 instructive articles on basketball by famous coaches.

By FORREST COX
University of Colorado Coach
BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 30.—Basketball being a game of quickly changing situations, I don't believe there is a set rule as to when a team should freeze the ball.

I'd say there are as many games lost by these tactics as there are won, when the score is close and the game goes into its final minutes or seconds.

When the offense starts freezing the ball, it's no deep secret to the defense as to what's happening.

The defense, if properly coached, will intercept, get a held ball, or force a bad pass.

Colorado trailed an eastern team by one point in the last two minutes a year ago. The opposition started freezing the ball.

We closed out on defense, gained possession, and dropped a field goal to win in the last five seconds.

We follow a general rule in regard to freezing tactics. Our offense is such that we do not rely on any set formation to control the ball.

We attempt to handle it more near the close of the game and work for better shots.

We don't take undue chances in the waning minutes of the last half—especially so if we have an eight or 10-point lead. Any actual attempts at keeping, or freezing the ball, are accompanied by short passes, which are protected at all times against possible interception—and not so much dribbling.

We don't consider it advisable to use a separate formation for freezing. I believe any system which fits in with the general scheme of offense and makes good ball control possible, without sacrificing scoring chances, is the best.

GOLDEN GLOVES TO RENEW WORKOUTS

Sedalia's Golden Glove boxers are to report to Coach Lawrence N. England at Fire Station No. 2, at 7 o'clock tonight and begin workouts.

Boys who are interested in entering the Golden Gloves are requested to report at the same time and the new recruits will be placed into a separate class and started in training, while the older and more experienced boys will be coached in a different class.

Beginning Tuesday arrangements will have been completed to start the colored boxers in workouts at Lincoln High school, and the boxers are requested to report to Coach England at that time.

Kansas City-Missouri Training school teams last Wednesday night several boys have signed entry blanks, which assures more competition in the various fight classes.

LOOK TO BETTER BUSINESS WITH MORE WORKERS

Motor Industry Expected To Provide Quarter Of Million More Jobs

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Heads of nine leading American industries looked toward the New Year with mild optimism last night, tempering predictions of definite, though possible slight, improvement in business with expressions of hope for better relations with government.

One concrete forecast stood out—A prediction by the spokesmen for automobile manufacturers that motor car and allied industries would find jobs for nearly a quarter of a million more men.

In a radio symposium Alvan MacCauley, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, spoke from Detroit; Tom Girdler, president of the Iron and Steel Institute, from Atlantic City, N. J.; J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, from Washington; Joseph Schenck, president of the Motion Picture Producers, from Hollywood; Paul S. Willis, president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers, from New York; Saul Cohn, president of the National Dry Goods Association, from New York; Edwin S. Friendly, advertising bureau chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, from New York; Dr. John F. Anderson, president of the American Drug Manufacturers Association, from New York; and Philip A. Benson, president of the American Bankers Association, from New York.

Girdler, storm center of the little steel strike in 1937 and arch foe of the CIO, was one of the most cautious of the speakers.

"On the whole I think we may reasonably expect a better year for steel operation in 1939," he said in his prepared address, but added the industry still was faced with "the big problem of how to earn even a small profit."

"In 1938 there was a loss and over the last nine years the average annual return on investment in the industry was only 1.5 per cent," he said. "Plans for increased armament now under discussion are not likely to bring any rush or large orders to the steel industry."

Declaring steel "suffered from the uncertainty on the part of investors with respect to the nation's attitude toward industry and the profit system," Girdler said the recent elections have had "a heartening effect" for private enterprise.

MacCauley, predicting a 20 per cent increase in motor car production, said this "means 90,000 more men back to work, augmenting the 310,000 wage earners employed in automobile factories in 1938," and "could likewise mean 150,000 more jobs in the allied industries of steel, glass, rubber, cotton, wool and many others—for nothing benefits so many other industries to such a degree as the motor car."

The flames, which burned most of a long frame building, also destroyed a large quantity of flour, beans and other food supplies.

Fire Chief Lawrence Conroy estimated the damage at $3,000, but a civilian employee of the corps said the loss might be as high as $20,000.

EIGHT INDICTED IN AN INQUIRY INTO A LOTTERY

The Government Aims Body Blow At Sales of Sweepstakes Chances

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The government aimed a body blow at the tremendous sale of Irish hospital sweepstakes chances in the United States Thursday by obtaining indictments against eight persons described as heads of this country's biggest ticket selling ring.

The indictments handed up by a federal grand jury climaxed a 2-year investigation by postal inspectors in 12 states scattered from coast to coast and carried charges new to the government's attack on foreign lotteries.

An innovation, Assistant U. S. Attorney John L. Delaney said was the charge of using the express to transport tickets in interstate commerce. Another group was indicted about two years ago, he pointed out, but the charge then was using the mails.

The indictments, containing 12 counts in all, also alleged conspiracy to smuggle the tickets into the country, distribute them and return the money to the Irish promoters. No figures were mentioned but one official estimated the output of tickets by the defendants at $25,000,000 for the year 1936. Tickets generally are sold for $2.50 each and prizes range from $150,000 downward.

Arrest in 1936 of six defendants, named as Gerald Kelly, John W. Kelly, John W. Kelly, 2nd, John R. Kelly, Connie Neenan and Clifford Burgett, all of New York, started the widespread inquiry. Free under bail since that time, they will be arraigned shortly to plead to the indictments. Bench warrants, Delaney said, would be issued for William Mead of New York and Joseph McCarthy of Philadelphia.

Young Traynor, who also was graduated from the University of Texas law school, was slain as he attempted to gain entrance to the Perkins' residence at a rear door, officers said.

His wife, mother of their one-year-old daughter, was living in the Perkins' residence.

SUSPECTS IN BANK ROBBERY BE QUIZZED

LEBANON, Mo., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Two brothers, one an ex-convict were picked up here today for questioning in the $1,600 robbery of the Bank of Humansville last Tuesday.

No charges have been filed against the suspects, said Sergeant E. C. Brown of the state highway patrol, pending arrival of an FBI agent.

Identification of a picture of one of the brothers by employees of the Humansville bank led to the arrests.

The brothers were arrested in a Lebanon beer parlor early this morning by officers of Laclede and Dallas counties. Their home is in Dallas county.

Patrolmen still were hunting two women who were reported to have been seen with the brothers last night.

A blonde woman, holding a dog on her lap, drove one of the two cars in which the Humansville robbers fled after holding up Cashier T. N. Payne and taking all the money in his cage. A woman bookkeeper was the only other person in the bank at the time of the robbery.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 30.—(AP)—United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton said today Clarence de Montreville, president of the Public Service Institute, attempted to end his life last night on the eve of his sentencing on a mail fraud conviction.

Blanton said he was informed by defense attorneys that de Montreville was taken to a hospital in a critical condition after swallowing poison tablets at his home. He was reported to have been despondent over his conviction and impending sentence.

Sentencing of 28 other defendants associated with the institute a correspondence school, was taken up by Federal Judge George H. Moore in de Montreville's absence and was completed in 50 minutes.

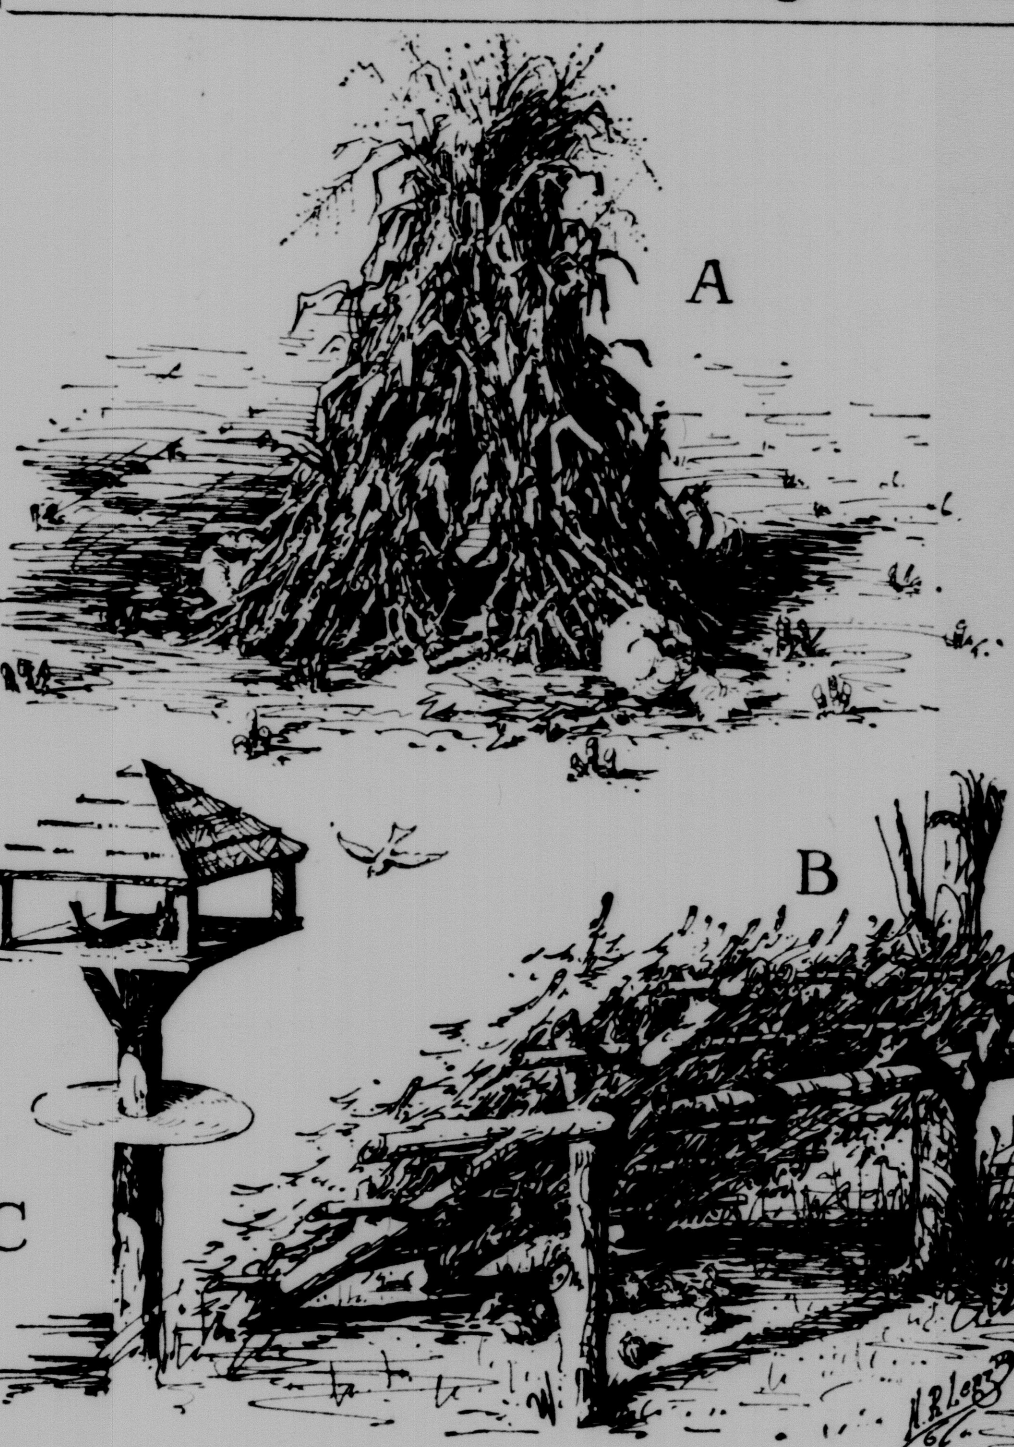

The penalties ranged from a 4-year prison term and $5,000 fine for a principal assistant of de Montreville to 6-month jail terms and $250 fines, with probation from jail on payment of the fines.

Those sentenced included Frances N. Grell and Angeline E. Grell, de Montreville's sister-in-laws, each of whom was fined $100 and sentenced to concurrent terms of a year and a day on each of 10 counts.

SPOTTY TREND ON STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Although many stock market leaders acted tired today, following their swift climb of Thursday, selected rails, amusements, utilities and specialties managed to continue the forward swing.

Profit taking in steels, motors and aircraft, combined with further last-minute "cash" tax selling, tended to give the list a spotty appearance after a fairly firm opening. Dealings dwindled substantially on the development of irregular trends. Transfers approximated 1,400,000 shares.

Despite the uneven price performance, a number of favorites succeeded in penetrating new high territory for the year. Losses, in the majority of cases, were held to minor fractions.

Wall Street continued optimistic toward 1939 business prospects, but speculative forces, in view of the recent rebound and the approach of another lengthy holiday—after tomorrow the Stock Exchange will recess until Tuesday—apparently decided to take home some of their gains and await the coming of the new year.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Testosterone Propionate, or Male Sex Hormone, Important Gland Product.

This is the fourth of five articles describing medicine's major advances in 1938.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Among the greatest of discoveries that have been made in medical science in recent years are those related to the glands of internal secretion. Among the most significant of the recent glandular products is testosterone propionate, a product which is coming to be called the male sex hormone. While this product was prepared in pure form several years ago only recently has it become possible to obtain a preparation from the urine of human beings, and still more recently such a product has been put together by the chemists in pure form. Whereas the product isolated from human materials was called androsterone, the product put together out of the chemical called cholesterol, taken from wool fat, is known as testosterone.

Since the product was developed it has begun to be tested in relationship to many different physical and even mental conditions affecting the human body. Its use has been studied in enlargements of the prostate gland, in the treatment of overactivity of the thyroid gland, in the case of women who seem to have excess activity of certain of the glandular substances developed in their bodies, and in the case of other women who have lost the effects of certain glandular substances from their bodies.

Men who have suffered changes in the body as a result of a complete deficiency of sex gland activity have apparently been treated with this substitute and have responded in such a manner as to indicate that the substitute takes the place to some extent of the normal tissues.

More recently some investigators have indicated that these glandular substances definitely stimulate sexual activity in the normal male and inhibit reproductive processes in the female. Again it has been suggested that these products may actually affect the thought processes of men in advanced years, stimulating mental activity.

While perhaps, only a few, if any, of these claims have as yet been fully verified by enough controlled studies to indicate that they represent actual accomplishments, enough has already been done to show that this is one of the great contributions to modern medical science.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Bridge Put Together On Temperature

EXTREMELY delicate problem was that engineers faced putting together the two gigantic spans of the $30,000,000 Sydney harbor bridge in 1931.

Work was started from both sides of the New South Wales harbor at the same time. Gradually the 60-ton creeper cranes approached each other until finally they almost touched. The next task was to link the two arches. But doing it was something else again.

For the two portions had to meet without the slightest variation and be locked by two huge steel pins. But to lock these arches together the temperature had to be exactly suitable. There was little to do but wait for that. One time the sun would affect the top chord of the arch but not the bottom and so on.

Meantime each side of the arch was held by great cables and these had to be relaxed gradually in order to bring the arches together. Ten days alone were occupied in this work, maneuvering for the right moment. At one time when the two ends were in almost exact position a change of temperature caused a variation of five inches in a few hours.

The connecting pins were at length driven home one night at the end of several hours' intent waiting. The next morning Sydney harbor saw its great spar lying the Union Jack and the Australian ensign. The two giant creeper cranes were stopped exactly in the middle.

The Sydney harbor bridge is shown here on a stamp, one of three commemorating its opening March 19, 1932.

RAISING A FAMILY

Foster Children Often Suspect The Motive In Acts of Parents.

"Don't worry, Mrs. Brown, I think I can talk to Mary without her suspecting you have come to me."

"Don't be hard on her, Doctor. I love the child as though she were my own. When we adopted her, John and I made up our minds she should never want for anything, never be unhappy or be in any way different from other children. But, of course, we had to do as all parents do and set her right at times."

"She seems to be particularly headstrong right now, and to take the attitude that we are not natural parents, sending her to college next year instead of the finishing school she has set her heart on."

"I know," said the doctor. "It is not the first case of the kind I have heard of. Mary is a fine girl but I think I know what is in her mind."

One day he had the opportunity he sought. Mary came to see him about a twisted wrist. He bandaged it and when she was ready to go he spoke about her school and plans for next year.

"I'm going to Miss Smart's," she said. "Don't you think that will be nice?"

"Yes, very nice. Your mother would do the best thing for you, of course."

"Oh, mother doesn't approve. She's determined to send me to a college, so I can be something or other. It isn't as though I were her own daughter, you know," Mary said slowly.

"Why, Mary. What makes you say that? I made our Peter go to a school he didn't want to go to. And now he is crazy about it. Real parents have to take matters into their own hands very often."

"When he was little I often had to hold his nose and dose him. And once, I remember," mused the doctor, "I kept him home from camp because I had to be away and he had to stay with his mother who wasn't quite well and needed someone in the house."

"I thought," said Mary, "that real parents let children do almost anything they wanted."

Parents Do What's Best

"You did? Why, what an odd notion. Of course they don't. They do what is best for the child. Sometimes, of course, children get their own way. Sometimes too much of it. But in important matters parents risk the love of a child when they assert authority at a necessary time."

"Do you think my own parents would make me go some place I didn't want? Allie's mother is letting her go to Miss Smart's."

"Allie. Yes, that may be. But then Allie is not one of my favorites. Not that I don't approve of young people having a say-so about their schools and other things as well, but now we seem to be talking about something else. I am very fond of your mother and father, Mary."

"I got it into my head that I was being mistreated," said Mary.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Peter Called to Service. John 1:35-42; Luke 5:1-11 for Sunday, January 1.

The purpose of the lessons of this quarter is "to learn from the experiences, activities and teachings of Peter, how the spirit and ideals of Christ may find practical expression in our experience and life today."

V. 40. "One of the two which heard Jesus speak, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother." John, the author of this gospel, was likely the one with Andrew, omitting his name because of modesty. They were disciples of John the Baptist, who likely witnessed Christ's baptism and were impressed with the testimony of John the Baptist, and therefore sought to know Jesus.

V. 41. "He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messiah, which is being interpreted the Christ." In one's own family is the right place to begin Christian service. One will not bring another to Christ unless he has first himself found Him as Saviour.

V. 42. "And he brought him to Jesus. And when Jesus beheld him, he said, Thou art Simon, the son of Jonas; thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a stone." Men of ordinary ability truly following the Lord are often instrumental in securing Christian converts of power. The Lord, by divine insight, knew the underlying qualities of character in Peter, and so he chose a name fitting Simon. It is character qualities that put meaning into a name.

Vs. 1, 2. "And it came to pass, that, as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by the lake of Genesareth; and he saw two ships standing by the lake; but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets." Jesus found a pulpit anywhere. He had a message and therefore the people flocked to him. The man with a message always gets the crowd.

V. 3. "And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And he sat down and taught the people out of the ship." Evidently the crowd was so large that out of self-protection, the boat was moved a little from the shore. Christianity has a large place for an educational program, but the teachings must be truly Christian. To live right one must think right, hence the importance of teaching.

Vs. 4, 5. "Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught. And Simon answering unto him said, Master, we have toiled all night, and have taken nothing; nevertheless at thy word, I will let down the net." There were divine resources back of this command. Often our lot seems helpless and we think there is no help in sight, but man's extremity is God's opportunity. It is in the most desperate situation that we learn of the boundless resources of God. Christianity calls for courage to venture forth purely by faith in God.

V. 6. "And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes; and their net brake." It was by means of operation that the program of Jesus was made effective. By trusting and obeying, the results were far beyond expectation. Breaking nets are symbolic of God's loving gifts to our hearts when we trust Him.

V. 7. "And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink." There are blessings enough in the depths of God's love to fill to overflowing the lives of others as well as ours. But others will never get any of these blessings unless we tell the good news.

V. 8. "And when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord." God's blessing had made Peter see himself as a sinner. There is little hope for a man spiritually, until he recognizes his faults and his sins. "The greatest fault is to be conscious of none." To be conscious of God makes one conscious of his sins. This miracle of fishes gave undeniable evidence of the supernatural authority of Jesus. Vs. 9, 10. "For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of fishes which they had taken; and so was also James and John. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men." There are happy surprises in store for devoted followers of Jesus. Jesus wants helpers in the big business of the recovery of a lost world.

V. 11. "They forsook all and followed him." This is Christian consecration. Their first business was kingdom service. They might do a little fishing as a secondary matter—as a means of support.

Discussion on Questions on S.S. Lesson

Peter Called to Service. John 1:35-42; Luke 5:1-11 for Sunday, January 1.

1. What are the qualities of a soul-winner such as Andrew was?

2. Why did Jesus choose such ordinary men to be His disciples?

3. Why did Jesus change Simon's name to Peter?

4. What profitable lessons are to be found in the parable of fishes?

5. Why did Peter become so conscious of his sinfulness as recorded in this lesson?

Clericus says, "The closer a man gets to God, the more conscious does he become of his sinfulness. By study and understanding of Christ on the cross, there is revealed the hideous character of sin that marks man."

Lesson Prayer. "We are grateful for a revealed Christ who manifested himself then and now to those who are willing to hear his voice. We pray for the art of soul winning that others may also know the Christ as their Lord and Saviour."

DO YOU KNOW?

1. From which of Noah's sons was Abraham a descendant?

2. What promise did God make to Abraham?

3. For what trait was Abraham noted?

4. In what way did Jesus invite recognition of himself?

5. On what ground was Jesus condemned to death?

Answers in column eight.

Between Time and Eternity

Dean Inge has said: "We all have to live in two worlds, the world of the senses and the world of values, which includes not only religion and art, but even science. We all need bridges to pass from time to eternity, from the world of facts to the world of values. Religious creeds and dogmas and ritual are all in the nature of bridges to help us to cross from one to the other."

We cannot rekindle the morning beams of childhood; we cannot recall the noontide glory of youth; we cannot bring back the perfect day of maturity; we cannot fix the evening rays of age in the shadowy horizon; but we can cherish that goodness which is the sweetness of childhood, the joy of youth, the strength of maturity, the honor of old age.

Time is one of God's creations. Some live contentedly wrapped up in the things of the world; others live entirely in the spiritual world; all alike need the bridge which the church provides to help us cross from the world of facts to the world of values.

The New Year does not begin on the first of January in every country, but on whatever date it is celebrated, the same idea is associated with it—goodwill, kindly feeling, often expressed in quaint customs and often in the giving and receiving of presents. It is not known how old is the custom of the New Year's celebration, but we do know that three thousand years before Christ was born, the people who lived in Babylonia kept a New Year festival called "Zalmuk" which lasted for twelve days.

When the Romans became Christians, the festival of New Year's was still kept, but in place of the old heathen practices, the Church ordered that the day should be one of fasting, prayer and humiliation.

In England, the ancient heathen priests called Druids used to scrape the mistletoe from the oaks and distribute boughs of it among the people on New Year's Day. In certain parts of England and Scotland it was customary when the clock struck on New Year's eve, for the young people to rush off to the nearest spring of water. Whoever first tasted the water drawn, might look for good luck in the coming year.

A graceful Colonial custom is still kept up in many parts of the South. It is the exchange of calls. Great preparations are made for these receptions and open house is extended to all who choose to enter. It is the time of all times for renewing friendships.

The Chinese make their New Year the greatest of festival times. They pay not only their social debts, but their financial debts as well, so far as possible.

We are told that in some parts of Iceland, instead of friend greeting friend with, "How are you?" or "Good morning" as they meet, each says to the other in a pleasant way, "Be happy." It is a beautiful salutation, and if it comes from the heart, it means much.

The Centuries Versus the Hours

Emerson once said that "the supreme lesson of life is to learn what the centuries speak against the hours." This is one of those hours in the world's long history when we need to remind ourselves of that truth.

It is a significant fact that the oldest historical monument on earth is said to be in the valley of Mount Siani. It is the tall figure of an Egyptian Pharaoh carved out of a rock wall. In his right hand is a club with which he is beating in the skull of a cowering Asiatic. In the thirty-fourth century before Christ, this ruler is giving notice to Asia that Egypt has come into possession of the copper and turquoise mines, and that power of Egypt. The hours said that he had won. But the centuries, speaking out of the dust of a civilization long since passed into oblivion, say that he lost.

Jesus faced a world that listened to the message of the hours. The Romans had the marching legions, and they lined the roads with the crosses of their vanquished enemies. Jesus preached the way of understanding, of forgiveness, of brotherhood, of love. He placed man in a cosmic frame against the eternal background of a loving Father God. As Jesus hung on his cross the hours gave their verdict. He had lost. But the centuries say that he won. Always and ever in the long course of history, the hours have been saying: "Truth forever on the scaffold. Wrong forever on the throne." But the centuries have the last word: "Yet that scaffold sways the future, and behind the dim unknown, Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above his own."
